In 48 Years Downcoast Little Change But Road, Esther Harlan Observes

By RAYLYN PENNEY

Forty-eight years ago the new schoolmistress for little Redwood School, located on the fringes of Los Padres National Forest down the coast from Partington Ridge, stepped off the Jolon stage and was met by a man she'd never set eyes on before.

He placed her luggage in his spring wagon and the pair jogged for 25 miles across virtually roadless terrain until nightfall when they arrived at a cave.

"The cave had ashes a foot thick on the floor, showing it had been used by generations of Indians. I curled up in one corner and listened all night to the scurrying sounds of small wild animals but I didn't say a word. I'd made up my mind not to be afraid," the school teacher recalled.

"In the morning we left the harness and wagon in the cave, took saddles which had been left there, and rode home by horseback. I hadn't been much on horseback. I was really a 'greenhorn' in those days."

The young schoolmistress was Esther Harlan (then Smith) who was to teach youngsters in the little school for more than 40 years. The man with the spring wagon was Esther's future father-in-law, Wilbur Harlan, father of George Harlan, whose grandfather homesteaded the property just north of the present Camoldoli Hermitage in 1877. And "home" was the Harlan ranch near Lopez (pronounced lo-pees by those in

TREE TOUR

Carmel city councilmen will consider two tree removal requests on their monthly tree tour meeting, leaving city hall at 4:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter ask permission to cut down a cypress tree on the west side of Scenic Drive between Ocean Avenue and Eighth Street. The roots of the tree are damaging a stone wall, they claim, also the cypress is badly shaped, badly placed and branches interfere with parking.

L. A. Hicks wants to remove two acacias on Vista between Mission and Junipero Streets for access to a garage. He was granted a variance to remove the trees in July, 1959, but did not act. They have grown in the meantime and he again wants to cut them down.

Doud Arcade Includes Whitney's, Six Shops And Upstairs Offices

The Doud Arcade, Carmel's newest downtown court which includes one of the oldest businesses in town as well as several of the newest, opened yesterday on Ocean Avenue between Dolores and San Carlos streets.

Whitney's, for 36 years a landmark in Carmel, led the group of seven shops planned for the arcade by opening its doors yesterday afternoon. Mildred's Sport Togs is expected to open soon.

Willard Whitney first purchased the business now known as Whitney's from Ivy Basham in May, 1926. It was a soda fountain and candy store then. Mr. Whitney remodeled it and opened it as a bar and restaurant ten years later.

"In the old days we bought all our candy from the local candy maker, Henry Kelsey," Mr. Whitney recalls. Mr. Kelsey was the father of painter Ivan Kelsey and the grandfather of Jimmy Kelsey.

Mr. Whitney, who moved to Carmel from San Rafael when he bought the business, opened his doors in 1926 in the same location as now. For business neighbors he had realtor Trev Shand on one

Berenice Little First Carmel OES Member To Get State Office

Mrs. Robert (Bernice) Little has returned to her Carmel home from Long Beach where she was installed as Grand Adah at the annual convention of the California Grand Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Her appointment to the state office marks the first time a member of the 10-year-old Carmel Chapter No. 581 has received one of the 10 appointments made by the worthy grand matron, presid-

Carmel police settled a shaggy dog incident last night after a man took "a small, shaggy pup" to the opening of an Ocean Avenue bar. He had found it on Highway One, he declared, and asked any of the bar patrons if they wanted it.

Jane Williams took the pup to the police station. She would keep it overnight she offered, then wanted a good home found for it.

Officer Walter Boyle was on duty. His report on the matter concludes "Sergeant Fischer family adopted the pup. It will be well fed and have plenty of children to play with." Sergeant Fischer is a member of the Carmel police force.

A dozen contractors have already asked for plans on Carmel's new junior high school to be constructed at the mouth of Carmel Valley, according to Thomas S. Elston, of Elston-Cranston, architects who designed the $1,350,000 school for 600 pupils.

Elston told the Pine Cone today that 10 of these firms have already been provided with sets of plans, and the remaining two will have them shortly. Four of the contractors are from the local area, others from Salinas, Fresno, Stockton and the Bay area.

Bids on the school, which with good luck and some mild winter weather the trustees of the Carmel Unified School District hope will be completed either in time for classes next fall or shortly thereafter, will be opened on Wednesday evening, November 22, at 7:30 o'clock in the music room, Carmel High School.

A Peninsula Planning Conference, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission and its citizens' advisory committee, will be held at the Officers' Club at the Presidio of Monterey on November 11, 9:30-3:00 o'clock. The first half of an area-wide study of present growth and future development of the Peninsula will be presented. Commission chairman Keith B. Evans and Mrs. Howard Clark, chairman of the citizens core committee, have sent invitations to a number of local residents asking them to take part

Rotary Names Recreation Park Perry Newberry

A drizzle didn't dampen enthusiasm of charter members of the Carmel Seniors Club, yesterday afternoon, during dedication ceremonies for Perry Newberry Park, a gift of the Carmel Rotary Club and the city for senior citizen recreation.

Instead the light rain brightened red and white shuffleboard courts, laid dust at the horseshoe pitching pits, freshened pines and planting around what was once an unsightly dump, also gave club members the chance to show how efficiently they will use mops and squeegees to keep concrete areas dry and clean.

No one, not even Mayor Frank Putnam, was allowed to step on the shuffleboard courts without wiping shoes on two mats placed at the entrance to the area.

City Councilman Francis Whitaker, "a voice in the wilderness" for eight of nine years, always seeking removal of old bathtubs and other objectionable items from the land deeded to the city for a park by Grace Benson Unander, expressed everyone's appreciation of the now tidy canyon when he said, "This shows what can be done in Carmel when everyone gets to work."

Farr Asks Governor To Appoint Campbell Superior Court Judge

Senator Fred Farr (D-Carmel) recommends in a letter sent to Governor Edmund G. Brown, that Gordon Campbell of Carmel, presently Judge of the Monterey-Carmel Municipal Court, be appointed third Monterey County Superior Court judge, effective January 1, 1962.

Judge Campbell is the son of the late Argyll Campbell, for many years Carmel's city attorney. He grew up here and attended Sunset School and Monterey High School.

Until his appointment to the municipal court bench, Judge Campbell was chairman of the board of trustees of the Carmel Unified School District.

During his undergraduate years at Stanford University he was a member of the varsity football team. He obtained his law degree from the University of Oregon, then was U.S. Marshal in China

River School Dragon Is Missing! Forlorn Faculty, Sad Students Search Carmel For Beloved Beast

The River School Dragon is gone.

Borrowed, purloined, mislaid, or tossed away by mistake—no one knows what happened. But for the first time in six years the traditional River Dragon failed to lead River School students down the Hallowe'en trail this week.

As familiar to River students as the Loch Ness Monster is to Scotsmen, and far more believable, the big, fabricated beast with papier-mache head and a green cloth body has annually meandered at the head of the Hallowe'en procession on the morning of October 31, River's biggest day of the year.

Manned and manipulated by three River teachers, "who always had great difficulty straightening up afterward," according to Principal Richard E. O'Connell, the dragon was a Chinese-style beast, and one much too large to be lost without a trace.

But it appears it got lost anyhow.

Mr. O'Connell believes the dragon is partly a victim of school expansion. River is using all its rooms this year, having converted Room 20, which used to be a store room, into a classroom. The dragon is thought to have been last seen hibernating in the store room.

"A teacher may have taken it home for safe-keeping," the principal said. "I have a horrible feeling it might even have been a teacher now no longer living in the district. Whoever it was may have taken it, and forgotten he had it."

Asked if the dragon might have fallen afoul of school prankishness, like the trophies annually pilfered by rival colleges during football

Jimmy Hopper's Manuscripts Enrich Bancroft Library

History and development of California records at the Bancroft Library, University of California, were enriched Saturday by manuscripts, photographs and other papers of the late James Hopper, writer and resident of Carmel for 50 years prior to his death five years ago.

Dr. James Hart, director of Bancroft Library and head of the university's English department, came to Carmel from Berkeley to obtain the material from Mrs. Roy Chanslor, Jimmy Hopper's wife at the time of his death.

Included in the papers were Mr. Hopper's corrected manuscripts, signed and unpublished poems by California poet, George Sterling, a letter to Mr. Hopper from Joseph Conrad and photographs of California writers, artists and musicians living in the San Francisco area at the beginning of this century, including Jack London and Xavier Martinez.

Following the San Francisco earthquake in 1906, George Sterling led members of the group to settle in Carmel, thus establishing this community as a cultural center.

Dr. Hart told Mrs. Chanslor the

LIVE OAK HIGH AT CARMEL SATURDAY AFTERNOON

CCAL B-Division Standings

	Won	Lost
King City	5	0
Carmel	4	1
Pacific Grove	4	1
Hollister	3	2
Gonzales	2	3
Gilroy	2	3
San Lorenzo	0	5
Live Oak	0	5

Cellar-dwelling Live Oak High provides the opposition for the Carmel High elevens this Saturday afternoon at Carmel's Bardarson Field with the Padres favored to push the Acorns a little deeper in the cellar. The Acorns have been stomped by everyone in the league except San Lorenzo and they are slated to face the Cougars next weekend. Although they have been on the losing end of all their games, the scrappy Live Oak lads have put up a good fight before bowing out of contention. Last week the Acorns took on the league-leading King City Mustangs and actually led the hard-hitting valley gang for most of the first-half. The Mustangs eventually wore down the Acorns to post a 35-7 victory, but Coach Ernie Piper's charges knew they were in a ball game.

Carmel's hopeful Padres are pulling for Pacific Grove to upset King City Friday night and throw the B-division chase into a three-way tie for the top spot. Although most grid experts give the Breakers little or no chance against the King City powerhouse, Coach Charley Howell's charges have scored more than one upset over favored teams and the Red & Gold gang would like nothing better than to stop the high-flying Mustangs.

Other B-division games for this weekend find Gonzales at Gilroy and San Lorenzo at Hollister.

CLEAT MARKS

Monterey Peninsula College bounced back from its defeat at the hands of Diablo College to trounce Vallejo JC, 36 to 14, in last Saturday night's Coast JC game at the MPC Stadium. The Lobos weren't at their best for this low-pressure game, playing only hard enough to win and obviously looking ahead to their November 18 date with arch-rival Hartnell College. The Vallejo Falcons tried out Red Hickey's shotgun offense and had about as much luck with it as the 49'ers had against Chicago and Pittsburgh. Speed backs, Jerry Colletto and Jim Dotson, did the big offensive damage for the Lobos, riddling the Falcon defense with their quick shots through the tackle spots. This Saturday night, the Lobos travel to Watsonville for a joust with Coach Larry Seimering's Cabrillo Seahawks. . . . Coast JC Conference officials may have moved the wrong teams into the Big Eight Conference as a look at the Coast JC standings may indicate. San Jose City College and Foothill are destined to graduate to the Big 8 next season, but their 1961 records show them to be having trouble enough in the Coast Conference. Both Hartnell and MPC hold convincing wins over the big schools and it appears the Lobos and Panthers will battle for the Coast JC title on November 18. When San Jose and Foothill leave the Coast Conference, little San Benito will step in to take their place. The small Hollister junior college has been playing a low-pressure schedule for two years, but will be an official member of the conference in 1962. . . . The anticipated quarterback duel between San Lorenzo's Steve Rodriguez and Carmel's Dan Holman turned out to be no contest as little Dan put on a sparkling passing show to give the Padres five touchdowns. While Holman was enjoying his best game, Rodriguez was sidelined by elbow and shoulder trouble and had to leave the game in the second period. If Holman isn't the top quarterback in the CCAL, he'll do until his substitute comes along. . . . Monterey High's football dynasty gets more powerful each week as the Toreadores keep rolling along the victory trail. Coach Dan Albert's Toreador varsity won a big one in the mud at Santa Cruz last weekend as it edged the Cardinals, 14 to 7. This victory puts Albert's charges in a favored position to win the A-division title and establishes the Toreador eleven as one of the top teams in Northern California. Monterey High hosts the North Salinas Vikings at the MPC Stadium this Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock.

PADRES WIN TRIPLE-HEADER FROM SAN LORENZO

Following the fine example set by the winning lightweight squad, Carmel High's varsity and junior-varsity squads had an easy time of it against San Lorenzo High, posting a 33-0 shutout in the jayvee fracas and coasting to a 32-6 win in the varsity clash. The Carmel lightweights opened the triple-header with a resounding 31-0 win over the San Lorenzo freshmen.

With John Tolan eating up huge chunks of yardage with his power running off tackles and through the middle, the Padre lightweights put the game out of reach in the first half as Ron Pesking and John Jones each racked up a pair of touchdowns. The Little Padres got an insurance marker in the final heat but the outmanned Cougars were far out of contention at this time.

Coach Fred Rainer saw his classy junior-varsity gang maintain a clean slate for the current season as it toyed with the outclassed San Lorenzo Jayvees in registering win number six. Scat back Dennis Clark darted through, around, and over the porous Cougar defense to tally a pair of touchdowns for his evening's work. Quarterback Al Nishimura tossed one touchdown aerial and scored one on a quarterback keeper. Gary Mumford, pound-for-pound the best football player wearing the Red & Gray spangles, tallied once for Rainer's Ramblers and did an outstanding job of blocking and tackling.

Giving all his players a chance to pick up some valuable game experience, Coach Hadley Hicks substituted freely as the Padre varsity outclassed the injury-riddled Cougar squad. With their All-CCAL quarterback, Steve Rodriguez, out of action in the second quarter, the Cougars lost the heart of their team and offered little resistance in the last two periods. Carmel quarterback Dan Holman enjoyed his best passing game of the current season, throwing for five touchdowns and racking up 274 yards through the air. The little junior strike-thrower hit Rich Shively for two touchdowns, zeroed in on Pete Conway for a pair, and found big Jim Kelley with another touchdown aerial. Rugged line play by Pete Morse, Terry Tweedie, Dave Harris and Jim Kelley gave the Padres game control on both offense and defense and made the going easy for the swift Carmel backs. George Pollock and Steve Fairfield were the top ball-carriers for the Padres while Ted Leidig, Rick Baldwin and Tony Bellaci were defensive standouts.

This Saturday afternoon, the Live Oak Acorns invade Bardarson Field for a double-header with the Padre varsity and jayvee squads. Junior-varsity preliminary starts at 12:00 o'clock with the varsity fray scheduled to get underway at 2:00 o'clock.

corrected Hopper manuscripts were an invaluable addition to Bancroft Library and will be used to show University of California students how a writer operates.

"James Hopper was far ahead of his time," he observed and added that the Carmel writer's many manuscript corrections demonstrated painstaking efforts to perfect an extraordinary style of writing for his time. This style was simple and direct, with flawless syntax.

In 1954, Dr. Hart came to Carmel to tape record an interview with Mr. Hopper. This tape is preserved in Bancroft Library's archives with recordings of other famous Californians' voices.

In addition to being known as one of California's outstanding authors, James Hopper was famous for other activities. He was a member of the University of California's "Wonder Team", helped steal the Stanford Axe the first time it disappeared before Big Game, later was varsity football coach at the University of California, also the University of Nevada. During World War I, as war correspondent for Collier's magazine, he plodded through muddy trenches with the American forces.

In Carmel's early days his swimming feats awed other residents. Each day, undeterred by weather or waves, Jimmy Hopper swam far out into Carmel Bay.

His youngest daughter, Jane, the wife of Herbert Vial, is a Carmel resident.

Bessie Praeger

Mrs. Bessie Hannah Praeger, a resident of Carmel since 1921, died yesterday morning in a local rest home after an extended period of illness. She was 87 years old.

Born January 17, 1874, in Keokuk, Iowa, she made her home in Carmel at Lincoln Street and Ninth Avenue. Her husband, Harry J. Praeger, preceded her in death a number of years ago.

Mrs. Praeger leaves a son, Henry Lloyd Praeger of Carmel; a sister, Mrs. Alice H. Currier of Portland, Oregon; a grandson, Donald Lloyd Praeger of San Francisco, and two nephews, Robert and John Currier of Portland, Oregon.

Private services were held yesterday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, with the Reverend David Hill of All Saints' Church officiating. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Opened for business yesterday in Pacific Grove after an extensive remodeling project, seen above, was the Security State Bank, which earlier this year announced plans to open a Carmel branch some time in 1962.

Among innovations at the enlarged facility are banking hours extending from 8:00 o'clock in the morning to 5:30 in the afternoon, a "walk-up" window for pedestrians outside the building, and a cash pick-up and delivery service for busy businessmen and carless housewives.

Remodelled in Victorian decor, the bank occupies its former quarters at 569 Lighthouse Avenue in addition to the former Simmons Jewelry store next door. Originally the E. Cooke Smith Bank, the Security State Bank is the oldest savings establishment on the Monterey Peninsula. It first opened for business at Grand and Laurel Street in Pacific Grove in 1889.

President of the bank since June has been William A. Burkett, who purchased controlling interest at that time, succeeding A. O. Gates as head of the institution. Mr. Gates is now chairman of the board. Former state superintendent of banks and president of Burkett and Company, Inc., San Francisco investment consultants, he moved to Pebble Beach this summer with Mrs. Burkett and their children Bill, 5; Kathy, 14; and Julie, 18. Julie is a student at Mills College and Kathy attends Carmel High School.

Vice chairman of the board of the independent, "home-owned" bank is Irvin Bussing, Ph.D., former professor of banking and finance at Columbia University.

The unique hours and services offered by the new Pacific Grove institution will also be instituted in Carmel when the bank opens here, banking officials said.

Peninsula Art

This is Art Week. Since last year's national week-long honoring of American artists, two significant developments have taken place in Carmel's art world: the Carmel Art Association opened enlarged galleries in February; the Monterey Peninsula branch of the American Federation of Arts established permanent headquarters and showrooms on Lincoln Street last month. Both are non-profit organizations. The Art Association, owned and operated by artist members, is the oldest art organization on the Peninsula; the AFA is the newest.

In two years, AFA membership has increased from 17 charter members to nearly 750 members. On Sunday this group will open an exhibition Art Work of the School Children of Japan. It will remain on display through November at AFA headquarters.

Next Thursday this same group will have a preview party at the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley. Two puppet shows will be on the program, The Little Flowers of St. Francis and The Tragical Comedy of Mr. Punch.

The Carmel Art Association will open a new show of its members' work on Wednesday. This exhibition will continue until December 6.

Chairman of the hanging committee for this show is Robert Davey. He is being assisted by Gene Elmore, Cush Walker, Leonard Heller, Marjorie Allen and Virginia Fry.

Original Christmas cards by local artists will comprise the November exhibit at the Carmel Foundation Town House. Exhibiting will be Geza St. Galy, Nancy Johnson, Joyce Bishop, Helen V. Bennett, Muriel Bastin, Jean Fowler and Carol Weston.

Editor,

In the last ten days of casual contacts about town with friends of Wilma Cook, I felt confident in recording the universality of recognition of the debt of gratitude that thoughtful members of this little village owe to Donald M. Craig for his tribute to Wilma and farewell from our community in the October 19 issue of the Pine Cone.

We, who knew Wilma, and loved her for her unswerving devotion to Carmel, felt an inner glow of satisfaction as we read Donald's interpretation of a life that had so richly contributed to the finer things of community life, in this, the home town of our choosing. As we read along, we came to realize that Don was telling our story for us, even as if he had searched our hearts individually, there to find the truths we felt, that he might give them expression for us.

Thank you Donald.

Not only the Monterey Peninsula but all of California has sustained a great loss through the death of Mrs. Wilma Cook.

Our own organization mourns the loss of a generous, courageous and public-spirited friend. Her constant interest in the preservation of natural beauty has been a potent factor in developing and sustaining public opinion consistent with the best principles of conservation, and we feel sure that her fine influence will long continue.

Some of us here who have followed Carmel news and affairs of community interest through the editorials of Wilma Cook are certain you have suffered a permanent loss, and we extend our condolences.

As an individual who from time to time submitted a poem for your consideration, I feel a personal sadness at the death of an intellectual, sympathetic friend of poetry who took the trouble to be interested in an individual poet's viewpoint, efforts and hopes.

I am sorry I did not ever meet Wilma Cook for I feel sure I owe her a personal debt of gratitude.

Sincerely,
A. R. Wagner, Principal

the area) Point, south of Big Creek, about 20 miles below Big Sur.

George and Esther Harlan this past Sunday celebrated their forty-fifth wedding anniversary. They were married October 29, 1916, taking the long trip back out of the coast range country to go to the bride's home near San Jose for the ceremony.

Esther had been born and reared in Campbell, California, near San Jose, and had graduated from San Jose Normal School (predecessor of San Jose State College).

Then someone in the coastal area had written to a friend in Campbell saying a teacher was needed. Esther applied for the job.

There was no coast highway then. That wasn't completed till 1937. The folk of this section of the Santa Lucia mountains had only just acquired telephones. "We built the telephone line from King City in 1910," George Harlan recalls, "by stringing up 40 miles of wire."

For supplies, residents of the area had been in the habit of dispatching one of their number—usually Wilbur Harlan—on an annual shopping trip to San Francisco. He would go and return by boat, bringing home barrels of flour and bags of sugar and rice, and woe to whomever left some necessity off his grocery list, because there wasn't another shopping trip till the next year rolled around. But it was a great holiday when the boat came in.

Into this rugged countryside came Esther, the school teacher. She had come from Campbell to King City by train, by stage from King City to Jolon.

The business of leaving one's saddle in the cave and hitching the horses to a wagon on the way to town, and vice versa on the way back was standard procedure for everyone in those days.

When she first arrived, she boarded with the Harlan family. "The Redwood School was the center of the community in those days," Mrs. Harlan says. It was located "up on the hill five miles south of the Gamboa ranch", and Mrs. Harlan wasn't sure when it had come into existence. "But Mr. Harlan's mother attended it in the early days." Mr. Harlan's mother was a member of the pioneer Dani family, and it was her father who came to the area in 1877.

Wilbur Harlan, whose family also took up homesteads and went into the cattle-raising business, came in 1885.

About six families were sending their children to school when Esther first came, some of them walking several miles. In the community there were the Gamboas, the Borondas, the Twitchells, the Swendings and the Danis, most of whom still have descendants living in the neighborhood, or at least in the county. George Harlan himself has two brothers and a sister in the neighborhood, Fred, Marion and Lulu Harlan, and a son, Don. Anyone reading the mailboxes on the coast road south of Big Creek soon discovers that the hills are full of Harlans.

But in the early days of her teaching career, Esther taught classes ranging from two or three to 17, "with sometimes children in all grades up to the ninth. It was quite a scramble to keep them going. We started the term in August and had a long winter vacation while the roads and trails were impassable."

Three years after she arrived in 1913, Esther married George Harlan, who had been born on the Harlan ranch. "I quit teaching for a few years, but after our eldest son, Gene, was old enough to go to school, we had no teacher again. And although I don't believe in married women with small children teaching, I hadn't much choice."

This time Redwood School, built by the Harlans in a new location on the Harlan ranch, joined with the Lockwood community to take in children from there and Esther Harlan taught until 1942, "when we ran out of children again."

With the exception of Gene, who had another teacher his first year, the Harlan boys had no teacher but their mother until they reached high school. "I was worried about how they would get along in high school but they did all right, one at Monterey High School and the other two at Pacific Grove."

Besides their son Don, who lives on the neighboring ranch and is an equipment operator for the California Division of Highways, the Harlans' sons are Gene, assistant astronomer at Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton, and Stanley, industrial arts teacher at Watsonville High School.

The one-room Redwood School is no more. Children from Slate's Hot Springs to the San Luis Obispo County line all attend Pacific School at Pacific Valley now, and go to high school at Cambria, traveling by bus over a highway their grandfathers didn't dream of in their own school days.

"But we don't sit down here saying 'Look how things have changed. Look at all the people around who weren't here before.' The fact is, things haven't changed much at all in 50 years, except for the road. And, not counting the hermitage, there are fewer people in our neighborhood now than there were before."

Mrs. Harlan seems to be right. The same redwoods and Santa Lucia firs still stand in this quiet part of the world as they must have stood 50, even 100 or more years ago. On some days the wind whistles up through the canyon, first stirring the water along the shore below "like someone had taken an egg beater to it." But the wind accounts for the only scurry and bustle there unless you count the activity of the wildlife.

The Harlan home itself, one the couple has lived in since 1950 after rearing their family in the older farmhouse below, looks over the ocean and the highway, but it is altogether detached from the highway and the sound of traffic.

"You leave things alone," Mr. Harlan says, "and they'll stay that way. It's only when you change things that you run into the problem of having to change them back the way they were."

"Except for planting some trees and cleaning up some land," Mrs. Harlan says, "we've left the place pretty much as God had it."

Although supplies are easier to come by these days, George and Esther Harlan have used mostly native timber and driftwood to construct even their new house. Also, they gather and cut their own rock for the stonework.

When George and Esther Harlan sat down to Sunday dinner this week, the occasion was a family celebration, held at the home of son Don, and marking their four and a half decades of married life.

In addition to their three sons, the Harlans have three granddaughters, Virginia, 18, and Beverly, 9, daughters of the Gene Harlans, and Carmen, 11, daughter of the Stanley Harlans.

None of this generation of Harlans was, of course, born in the wild coast country, and it seems important to note that Esther Harlan explained that neither were her children born there, although their father and many members of the older families were.

"My sons were all born in San Jose," Mrs. Harlan said, "two of them in the hospital, one in my parents' home in Campbell. You see, I got quite brave after my first years here, but not that brave."

And although both the Harlans keep up on "what's going on in town" and even watch television occasionally coming from this changed world outside, you can see without asking that neither could be persuaded into swapping lives with anyone.

Farr Asks Governor To Appoint Campbell Superior Court Judge

for a number of years. He served with the U.S. Navy during World War II, following this practiced law on the Peninsula until he became a municipal court judge.

Senator Farr's letter to Governor Brown states:

"Gordon Campbell, a Democrat, presently Judge of the Monterey-Carmel Muncipal Court, has served with distinction as a member of the bench, and his outstanding work has brought him the endorsement of the Monterey County Bar Association and many citizens throughout this county.

"I have known Judge Campbell for many years, having attended elementary school with him in Carmel, and followed his career through college and law school. He has been a very able attorney, and has conducted himself with great credit as a Municipal Court judge. He has also had considerable experience as a pro tem judge of our Superior Court.

"Inasmuch as you have sought my advice on this appointment, I am proud to recommend Gordon Campbell."

River School Dragon Comes Up Missing

season, Mr. O'Connell said, "I don't think so. Let's hope not."

Historically, the River Dragon had a lot of loving attention from both teachers and students over the years. It was originally constructed (or perhaps hatched?) in a class of Mrs. Harriet Norman, since retired, a teacher at Sunset School.

When the Chinese play Mrs. Norman's students were giving was over, the dragon was stored at Sunset until several years later when someone at River School recalled it was there, and "adopted" it.

It was patched and painted. As recently as last year Mrs. Carol Surman, a River teacher who has since moved away, completely revamped the beloved beast, darning all the holes and brightening its crocodile smile.

This Tuesday, when more than a hundred parents and friends converged on River School to see the youngsters parade in costume, the usual motley group capered across the playground.

There were Martians, robots, pirates, the Great Pumpkin, a tea table all set for tea, a cook book, a pioneer with an arrow clean through his chest, a crusader, a Sherman tank and (so help us) a bag of manure. But no dragon.

"We all know that somewhere," Mr. O'Connell said, "there is a very sad dragon who knows he missed the parade."

Clarence Fawcett

Private rites were held yesterday in Monterey for Clarence E. Fawcett, for the past seven years a resident of Carmel. He died Tuesday afternoon at his home at Dolores Street and First Avenue, after a long illness.

Born June 21, 1882, in Chester Hill, Ohio, Mr. Fawcett was a farmer until his retirement.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Fawcett of Carmel; four daughters, Miss Margaret Fawcett of Booth, Pennsylvania, Miss Laura Fawcett of Salinas, Mrs. Anna Granade of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Paul Bohn of Boothwin, Pennsylvania; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Watson of Carmel and Miss Marion Fawcett of Philadelphia; a brother, Clifford J. Fawcett of Tucson, Arizona; a sister, Mrs. Martha Shaw, of Globe, Arizona, and several grandchildren.

Friends may make contributions in the memory of Mr. Fawcett in the form of donations to the American Friends Service Committee, 2160 Lake Street, San Francisco.

DREAMS

Dreams, small, frail, unrecognized, Happen.
Like mirages, they fade away.
Or quietly, silently, they curl around reality,
And tenaciously wait their birth.
Rejected, around a world they circle,
Hovering.
They waft above leather-leggings,
Tracking paths in the Black Hills.
They curve the sphere,
And dine on the Zambesi,
In the denseness above the hunter's fire.

—ALTA MARGARET SHEPHERD

AFFINITIES

In my small garden, where they grow
Against a wall, the fuchsias glow.
These "jewel flowers", as they're known,
And foxglove, colors matched in tone,
Present a picture good to see
At which I gaze admiringly.

Each day there is a wondrous sight
That always fills me with delight;
The hummingbirds come to inspect
Each flower for a small insect
Or nectar sip, hovering there
With whirring wings that fan the air.

For iridescent loveliness,
The "jewel flowers" all about,
And in my mind there is no doubt,
Since both are jewels, there must be
A special, close affinity.

—OLIVE MALLOCH

QUEST

Upon this beach I face the west
And watch the sunset flowers bloom;
Far out upon the ebbing tide
A ship's lights wink in violet gloom.

My vision sweeps the line that bounds
The farthest reaches of the sea;
The human heart forever seeks
Uncharted lands of mystery.

Above my head a ghostly gull
Soars by in solitary flight,
A wandering soul upon the wind,
A cry within the glimmering night.

I am that wail between the deeps
Of barren sea and endless sky,
Forever seeking isles of dream
Where sunset's golden gardens lie.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column

By C. Edward Graves

33. THE BILLY GOAT TRAIL

Without changing the title of this column I shall devote it this month to the Wilderness of the East. My wife and I have just returned from a 27-day motor trip through New England and the Middle Eastern states. My wife has suggested that an account of the trip should be entitled An Adventure in Nostalgia, because I lived for the first 28 years of my life in western Massachusetts and she used to spend her summers during childhood in Amesbury, in northeastern Massachusetts.

It was our first opportunity to see that part of the country in its complete autumn dress. During the horse-and-buggy days of my youth we never travelled very far from home and although the glorious avenues of maples along the streets of my home town remain a vivid memory, I had never before compassed nearly all of the outstanding hill and mountain regions of the East in one continuous trip. We followed the autumn colors from northern Vermont and New Hampshire to the Shenandoah mountains of Virginia, staying with the peak of the show all the way. The weather man cooperated and the adventure in beauty was an experience long to be remembered.

I have entitled this column, The Billy Goat Trail, because the hike over this trail, so named by the members of the Potomac Appalachian Trail Club, was the only purely wilderness experience that I had. This took place on the next-to-the-last full day of our trip. Until then we had motored through the Green Mountains of Vermont, the White Mountains of New Hampshire, the Berkshires of Massachusetts, the Catskills of New York, the Delaware Water Gap of Pennsylvania and the Shenandoah National Park of Virginia, revelling in the kaleidoscopic display of red, yellow, brown, orange and green foliage and making a photographic record of it. Although we avoided the main-travelled roads as much as possible and frequently explored narrow winding country roads where a certain amount of solitude and quietude were to be found, yet we were never very far from the high-speed traffic at any point. It is all-pervading in the East.

On the day that I travelled the Billy Goat Trail I was accompanied by a college mate, Rulon Williamson, one of the pioneers of the Potomac Appalachian Trail Club, the counterpart of our Sierra Club, and by Joe Carithers, my former assistant in my National Parks Association work, now a special assistant to Secretary of the Interior Udall. A few days before Joe had introduced me to the men who make the wheels go around in the Department of the Interior. The climate for wilderness conservation in high government councils is the best in years under the enthusiastic leadership of Secretary Udall.

The Billy Goat Trail is a marked trail with no construction work on it, leading along the cliffs bordering the Potomac River just west of Washington. It begins at the Great Falls of the Potomac and parallels the C. and O. Canal tow path trail, which is now a National Monument under the National Park Service. It calls for rugged climbing among the rocks in many places and often emerges at overlook points above the river where extensive views in both directions are available.

This was real wilderness within a few minutes' drive from the Nation's capitol. Although we made our trip on a beautiful Saturday afternoon, when offices are closed, we only met one other small party on the trail. One might wish that more people would be attracted to places of this kind. A bill is now before Congress to add more land to the canal area and make a national park out of it. It is opposed by big dam proponents who hope to harness the Potomac for their particular type of river development. So far they have been successful in persuading Congress not to appropriate money for it but conservationists are hoping that the tide will be turned at the coming session of Congress.

SAFEWAY

Don't Let Carmel Become Just Another Resort!

Miss Ethelinda James wants other Carmelites to read the present evaluation of their town and apprehension for its future expressed in a letter to her from her friend, John C. Goodchild, one of Australia's leading artists who has visited Carmel four times over a period of years while on trips abroad to collect and purchase paintings for the Adelaide Art Gallery, also paint commissioned pictures.

Hillside Avenue,
Highbury East,
South Australia.
Sept. 11, 1961.

Thanks to the latest jet planes flitting at 600 miles per hour between aerodromes spanning the globe, I am back home in South Australia after three touch-downs, in Honolulu, Fiji and Sydney, Australia, eighteen hours between summer in California and winter in Australia. I'm not yet certain whether I'm in King William Street, the main street of Adelaide, or Ocean Avenue in Carmel.

In other words I'm suffering somewhat from a Carmel hangover.

This is not surprising after enjoying so much that unique town of yours with its pleasant restaurants, tasteful shops, streets, pine trees, redwood houses and restfulness, not to mention seeing you and our Carmel friends again.

As you know I left Australia on a four months' leisurely painting tour in England and the United States, and this I had in the delightful countryside of these countries. As on previous occasions, changes in the skylines of towns and cities, also commercial development were evident, not surprising when one thinks of the great increases in population and industrial activity, but I was surprised to find them also in Carmel, neither a commercial or industrial centre. My previous visits to Carmel gave me the impression that if a painter was commissioned to decorate a stage setting to Arthur Ketelby's Bells Across the Meadow, then Junipero Serra's Mission, Point Lobos and Carmel pines, plus a couple of houses such as the early writers lived in, would be ideal material to work on. I am not sure that such would be the case today, and I wonder for how long you will hold the unique character of Carmel. To me Carmel is to California as are the villages of the Cotswolds to England, Venice to Italy or Dinklesbuhl to Germany. Only care and the utmost vigilance against influences foreign to their character by the civic authorities have preserved these charming spots appreciated consistently and increasingly by the thousands upon thousands who visit them from all over the world. Even so, apart from the historical associations, cultural richness, quaintness and peace preserved as such, it must also be a first rate paying proposition. I am sure it is.

As these old towns have been preserved amidst their industrialized cities, so Carmel should be preserved in California.

When I was there recently I felt from what I saw that you might be on the verge of movements that might considerably alter the natural characteristics of your town, and once made could not be altered.

However, one must move with the times and some changes will have to be made as time goes on, but such changes should always harmonize with their surroundings, and never dominate or obliterate them.

I hope to revisit Carmel again before long. Don't let it become just another resort!

Yours sincerely and warm remembrances to all Carmelites,

John C. Goodchild

TOWN HOUSE WORKSHOP

Workshops for making wreaths and cards will be held at the Town House on November 9 and 10, following the Oakland Holiday Decoration tour. Members of the Foundation not going on the tour will see color slides with recorded commentary, on Digging for Dinosaurs, Amphibians of the United States and The Navajo. Tea will follow the meeting for members and all others interested.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Today we have more free time than ever before. Longer vacations, numerous holidays, three-day weekends, and earlier retirement, may mean more free hours for which few are really prepared. Man and Leisure is the title of a book by Charles Brightbill which stresses the philosophical approach to an important problem, the problem of meaningful recreation. The author discusses the problem from many standpoints, and tries to show his reader how leisure time and recreation can be a way to the enlargement of the personality, the improvement of health, and a firm defense against boredom.

If you are interested in the voyages of the old sailing ships, the next book is for you. Walter Teller, whose previous books included The Voyages of Captain Slocum and The Search for Captain Slocum, has now edited a book called Five Sea Captains. He has collected here excerpts from the logs of five sea captains, Amasa Delano, Edmund Fanning, Richard Cleveland, George Coggeshall, and Joshua Slocum. Those were the men, and those were the days!

Not all the brave mariners lived years ago, however. The hardy breed exists today, as the book The Roof of the Wind will prove to you. It tells the exciting story of a trip Nelson Hayes and his wife Emmy made in a small boat when they were caught by a storm off an island in the Bahamas.

Novelist Thomas Mann has told us the story of his writing of that great work Doctor Faustus, in his recent book entitled The Story of a Novel. But he has told us more than that. He has told us of his life during the remarkable days when he was writing his book, of world affairs during those days, and even of the serious operation he had and of his reactions to hospital life and his treatment there. The reader is impressed by the gentleness of this man, and the strong ties which bound this family together.

We had several requests for the book by Dr. Joyce Brothers, whom you may remember as the person who won a fortune on a television program. The publication of the book was delayed and by this time persons who were interested in it may have forgotten all about it. Anyway, it is here at last and the title is Woman. The book is divided into three sections and these are entitled The Single Woman, The Married Woman, and The Mother, and that just about includes all female humans. Dr. Brothers writes in a casual conversational manner. There is a table of contents but no index, so just take it and read it through, if you are interested in the subject.

And finally, we have a book for the serious student of music which was written by Erwin Bodky, published by Harvard University Press, and entitled The Interpretation of Bach's Keyboard Works. No need to tell you why we bought it because we are always adding to our material on Bach. This is a Dene Denny memorial book.

All serious books this week, but everybody has to be serious some of the time.

Highway Commission Allots $700,000 For Coast Road Projects

The California Highway Commission, last week in Santa Monica, voted to spend $6,025,000 in Monterey County for the improvement of Highway 101 and Cabrillo Highway along the coast in 1962-63.

Tree planting projects are listed for the first time in this year's Highway Commission budget as a result of a policy adopted by the commission last June and $4,178,-500 is allocated for 28 landscaping, functional planting or tree planting projects.

There is no mention in the release from E. R. Foley, District Engineer, Division of Highways, San Luis Obispo, of any funds for freeway construction on the Monterey Peninsula.

The major Monterey County project of the California Highway Commission in 1962-63 will be 11.3 miles of four-lane freeway on U.S. 101 from 1.2 miles north of Bradley to San Ardo, costing $4,180,000, according to the communication.

The Highway Commission also voted last week to spend $260,000 to construct retaining cribs on Cabrillo Highway from the San Luis Obispo County line to Rocky Creek, 12 miles south of Carmel; and $450,000 to replace a bridge and approach on the same road at Hot Springs Creek south of Big Sur.

Various rights of way in the county will be purchased with $1,135,000 budgeted for this purpose by the Highway Commission last week. A bridge will be built over Little Bear Creek at Santa Rita on Highway One.

Flora Dani

A descendant of one of the pioneer ranch families of Big Sur, Mrs. Flora Katherine Pfeiffer Dani, died Sunday in a local hospital. She was 85.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Burial followed at Cemeterio Encinal, Monterey. Chaplain John Wright (USA-Ret.) was asked to officiate.

The last surviving member among the eight sons and daughters of Michael and Barbara Pfeiffer, Mrs. Dani was born August 7, 1876, at Pfeiffer Point on the Big Sur coast. Her father's cattle ranch had been homesteaded in 1869 at Sycamore Canyon and her brothers later homesteaded their own acreage nearby.

She remained in the coast country following her marriage to Alvin Dani, member of one of the neighboring early families of the area, whose parents homesteaded in 1877. Her husband died in 1949.

Mrs. Dani was one of the heirs of the Pfeiffer estate who in 1934 presented 680 acres of the original Michael Pfeiffer ranch, valued at $70,000, to the State of California for a park. The grant now forms the major portion of Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park.

In addition to a number of nieces, nephews and cousins, Mrs. Dani is survived by three sons, Albert and Don Dani of King City, and Stanley Dani of Big Sur; three daughters, Mrs. Katherine Brazil of Salinas, Mrs. Margaret Brazil of Big Sur and Mrs. Helen Howells of San Jose; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Electa Grimes of Big Sur; 11 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

San Francisco Mayor Opens Conference Of Adult Educators Here

Seven hundred educators will gather here tomorrow for the annual California Council for Adult Education conference. In the evening Mayor George C. Christopher of San Francisco will address the group at a banquet at La Playa Hotel. He will speak on Education and Civic Responsibility.

Saturday, the council will break up into section meetings to hear among others: Dr. A. Lamont Smith of the University of California, department of criminology, in a session devoted to Correctional Education; Dr. Edward V. Hurlbut, San Bernardino Schools, on Counselling and Guidance; Miss Esther Scofield of the State Department of Education on Homemaking. The group will be addressed at luncheon by Dr. Wallace W. Hall, Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

John Griffin, Salinas Adult School, president of the Central Coast section, will be host at the conference. Presiding over the session will be Leslie Pollard, Modesto Adult School, state president of the Council

An added feature of the conference will be a session on Electronic Data Processing in Business and Industry conducted by a team of engineers from the Food Machinery Corporation, San Jose, A. Taylor Smith and Ken Barney. They will supplement the section meeting on Science and Mathematics headed by Dr. Ray McCall of San Jose State.

A. Dal Favero, of the Correctional Training Facility, Soledad, will head an additional panel on Correctional Education with the assistance of Dr. William Malin of San Quentin; Don Dudley of Soledad; Mrs. Grace Yeager of Deuel Vocational Institution and W. H. McCollum of San Quentin.

Ralph Groves, principal of Memorial Adult School, San Diego, will head a panel, Adult Teacher and The Public, while the concluding section meeting will feature Clarence Bates, Carmel Adult School, on Arts and Crafts.

Carola Goya and Matteo, the famous dance team, will open the Carmel Music Society 1961-62 season on November 8 at Sunset School Auditorium. Their program A World of Dancing is drawn from a repertoire of dances from 18 different countries. Over 400 articles of exotic costumes and properties are seen in this production. Each artist has won recognition in his or her own right and combining their talents has given wide scope and variety to their program.

They have travelled the world extensively and studied with authoritative masters in order to produce their unique repertoire with its great variety of dances from Scotland, India, Portugal, Italy, Bavaria, Mexico, Java, Thailahd and Japan and the various provinces of Spain, Hawaii, Tahiti and Latin America.

The company is now on a transcontinental tour. Their most recent presentation was with the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony.

Quoting from the New York Herald Tribune, "Beautiful Carola Goya and virile Matteo (what a perfect team they are) presented treasures of colorful and absorbing ethnic dance with a warming glow, vivid and neat patterns, sensitivity to music and dramatic theme and a wonderful elegance. . . . A stirring and wholly entertaining program."

UNITY MEETING

Prayer and study of the Unity Truth principals, based on the subject A More Wonderful You will form the program of the Unity Truth Church meeting Tuesday at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon in the De Neale Morgan Studio, Lincoln Street and Seventh Avenue, according tto the Reverend Sonja Samiran.

Educational TV Committee Wants School Tax Funds

Monterey County school districts should consider using tax funds to build "translator" relays so that educational programs of KQED-TV can be brought to this area, Elmer Stoll, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Educational Television Committee, recommended last week in a letter to Dr. Brooks Lockhart, president of the Monterey County School Board Association.

Senator Fred Farr (D-Carmel) sponsored a bill, passed by the California legislature in June, enabling school districts to invest in translators such as the one proposed for this area.

Carmel schools are receiving educational television programs at no cost, now, through the courtesy of the local cable company. However, indications are that the KQED station signal might be stronger if the Loma Prieta translator were installed, particularly in respect to home reception in Carmel itself, according to a representative of the cable company.

School district trustees, some months ago, considered Loma Prieta translator financing, but took no action as the existing arrangement is satisfactory for educational television programs now being used in the school system.

Mr. Stoll's committee is one of several that have been campaigning since June to raise funds to help build a "mother" translator station on Mount Loma Prieta. So far only $2,400 has been raised towards the $25,000 estimated cost of the translator, $1,400 of this amount on the Peninsula.

A translator will provide instructional television programs in schools from 9:00 o'clock in the morning until 4:00 in the afternoon; from then until 11:00 o'clock in the evening, educational and cultural programs in the home.

Mr. Stoll suggests that the daytime instructional program costs be met by school district tax funds; the home evening programs be financed by public subscription. He proposes that the $2,400 already subscribed for the translator be used for home programs, and asks the Monterey County School Boards Association to study all three matters and provide a solution.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

At the Palo Corona Ranch of Mr. Stuyvesant Fish, a delightful musicale was given Sunday afternoon as a benefit for Bishop Kip parochial school. A capacity audience drove up the hillside with its panoramic view of Carmel Bay to find out what the Reverend H. M. M. Nicholas, whose musical talent and violin playing are well known to the neighborhood as well as his friendly helpfulness and vivid imagination, was offering this time. In amusing showmanship, he led a group of musicians in old-fashioned popular numbers that included the Poet and Peasant Overture and waltzes from The Merry Widow, and inserted, while playing brilliantly, spasmodic strikes on the drum at his side, reminding one of the old street players who used head, hands and feet. Mrs. Douglas Graham, in a lovely old costume sang an aria with her pleasing soprano and vocal agility. Beautiful period costumes had been lent from the First Theatre collection to create a parade of models with Florence Dormody as commentator. These were Al Olinger, Midge Hicks, Patricia Ramsey, LaVerne Leeman and Nina Swan, a little girl who acted mischieviously and hugged Mr. Nicholas! Anne Elmore at the piano, Mary Dobell, cello, and George Beck, violin, who played a solo, comprised the rest of the ensemble with a finale of Ta-ra-boom-di-a in which the Reverend David Hill added drum playing with much gusto! It was, altogether, a refreshing divertissement with the musicians performing the sentimental numbers so well and sympathetically that a nostalgia touched many of the audience, who then, as indicated by Mr. Nicholas, got "on with the party" dispersing to the terrace and dining room for refreshments.

The opening concert of the season for the Carmel Music Society, Dances and Costumes of Many Lands, will be held on Wednesday at Sunset Auditorium. It should be of great interest.

It is interesting to students of music everywhere that the clever composer Peggie Glanville-Hicks, a scholarship winner originally at the Royal College of Music in London and pupil of Vaughn Williams and Sir Malcomb Sargent, has just had her second opera produced at Athens in Greece; her first being The Transposed Heads, given with great success at Louisville, Kentucky. Praised by critics as doing what very few men can, she says herself, she does not use dissonance except for "stress and anxiety", which this writer has also believed in.

All-Star Cast Opens In Character Comedy At Circle Tomorrow

Babs Richardson, Peg Miner, Gertrude Chappell and Edgar Pye will join forces on the stage of the Circle Theatre tomorrow evening in Peter Coke's comedy, Breath of Spring. They will portray a "gang" of respectable if eccentric Londoners who decide to dabble in crime.

The considerable talents of these four performers, who have all starred in previous Circle productions, will be reinforced by another quartet of experienced players, newer to Carmel's arena stage. They are Myrtlerose Craig, last seen here briefly in The Time of the Cuckoo, and previously in The Seven Year Itch; Mildred Cushing, making her fifth appearance in 15 months at the Golden Bough; James Alcorn, whose Scottish accents have graced both Pygmalion and Hobson's Choice; and Steve Hansen, Army Language School student and future professional actor, who has set a record by appearing in four consecutive productions during the past half-year.

Director Frederick Rider plans Breath of Spring as a brief return to the type of character comedy which has been the perennial favorite of Carmel audiences. It will be followed on December 15 by an operetta for the Christmas season.

WAC Invites Public To Hear Discussion On World Communism

A talk on Tito's Yugoslavia and World Communism will be given tomorrow night by Dr. Milorad M. Drachkovitch, senior staff member, Hoover Institution on War and Revolution and Peace, also director of the project, The History of the Third (Communist) International (1919-1943), to members of the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula at 8:00 o'clock in Carmel High School auditorium.

The address is co-sponsored by the Carmel Adult School and is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Drachkovitch was born in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, the son of a Serbian statesman. Immediately after the German attack on Yugoslavia in April 1941, he voluntarily enlisted in the Army. After the capitulation of the Yugoslav army, he joined the ranks of the Resistance Movement of General Draja Mihailovitch, where he later served as the representative of Serbian Youth. After the entry of the Red Army into Yugoslavia, he escaped from the country and illegally entered Switzerland, where he was interned until the end of the war. Thereafter he refused to return under the communist regime and remained as a political refugee in Switzerland.

Dr. Drachkovitch resumed his university studies which had been curtailed by the war, receiving his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Political Science at the University of Geneva. During 1955-1956 he was a fellow of the Commonwealth Fund Foundation of New York. He was admitted as a permanent resident into the United States in August 1958. Dr. Drachkovitch has been a visiting professor at Stanford University and the University of California. In 1960 he became a Research Associate at the Hoover Institution and was a Research Fellow, Russian Research Center of Harvard University.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Today's need for spiritual discernment will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" will include these words of St. Paul (I Cor. 2).

"Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

This citation will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 203): "Spiritual perception brings out the possibilities of being, destroys reliance on aught but God, and so makes man the image of his Maker in deed and in truth."

Priscilla Clark To Marry

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Elton Clark announce the engagement of their only daughter, Priscilla Louise, to John Philipp Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison J. Becker of Winchester, Massachusetts.

Priscilla, a graduate of Sunset School and Carmel High School, was granted a B.A. degree in political science by Stanford University in 1959. She worked at the U.S. State Department reception center for foreign visitors in San Francisco until last month and is now employed with the U.S. Bureau of Cultural Affairs in Washington, D.C.

Her fiance graduated in 1958 from Brown University where he was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. Following three years' service with the U.S. Army, he received a U.S. Department of State appointment and is now in Washington, D.C., completing a basic orientation course, then will be assigned to overseas duty with the U.S. Foreign Service.

Priscilla and he plan to be married next month.

Visitor from Dana Point

A frequent visitor to Carmel, Kenneth D. Morris, Orange County editor of The Register, Santa Ana, and Mrs. Morris spent part of this week with Carmel friends on their way to an Oregon vacation.

Returns from Europe

Mrs. Zenas L. Potter arrived home this week after spending the summer in Europe. She visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Anatole Chelnov, at their home in Geneva, where Mr. Chelnov is foreign manager for Encyclopedia Britannica, and was also the guest of her sister, Mrs. Clark Williams, at the Williams home in Paris.

After flying home over the pole from Paris to San Francisco, Mrs. Potter found the Carmel "branch" of her family already living in their new home in Carmel Knolls. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Smith, moved in just a week ago.

Joining in the family reunion was an uncle of Mrs. Smith, Howard Williams of Los Angeles and New York, who with Mrs. Williams has been visiting Carmel this week.

The homecoming celebrations culminated in a dinner Tuesday evening at Del Monte Lodge with Mrs. Potter as guest of honor and the Williamses of Los Angeles as hosts.

Mrs. Potter, long-time resident of Carmel, is known professionally as Miriam Clark Potter, author of a list of Mrs. Goose juvenile books beloved by the younger generation.

Altar Society to Meet

The Altar Society of Carmel Mission Basilica will hold its next meeting on November 9, at the Villa Angelica. Guest speaker will be William MacLennan, formerly dean of men and head of the history department of Santa Barbara State College, on the topic, Carmel Mission in the Days of Spanish rule in California.

He has written and broadcast extensively on life in Spanish California and served as patron for programs at both Santa Barbara and Santa Ynez Missions. Mr. MacLennan has been honored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West in recognition and appreciation of his contribution to the work of preserving the romantic traditions of California.

Son For The Harrises

Their first son, Steven Matthew, was born to the Cleave J. Harrises of Wawona Road, Carmel Valley, October 22, at Monterey Hospital. At home to greet the new arrival was a sister, Robin Renee, 2, and the younsters' maternal grandmother, Mrs. C. A. Carlson of Meeker, Colorado, who is spending several weeks with the Harrises.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Carlson, Steven has another grandparent, Mrs. Pearl Harris, Wellsville, Missouri. Mrs. Harris is the former Dorothy Carlson. The Harrises have resided in the Valley for the past three years.

'Hannibal' Man to Speak

Carmel Woman's Club members will hear first hand of the adventures of the man who gained recent fame as a modern-day Hannibal, John M. Hoyte, leader and originator of the British Hannibal Expedition which crossed the Alps from France to Italy using elephants, just as the Carthaginian military general is reputed to have done in the second century B.C.

Mr. Hoyte, who led a seven-man team on the tour with elephants and mules carrying camping equipment, will speak at a meeting of the club Monday afternoon, November 6, at 2:00 o'clock.

Born in China of missionary parents in 1932, Mr. Hoyte was imprisoned for three years by the Japanese during World War II. Afterward he earned a scholarship to Cambridge University and received an honors degree there. He will illustrate his talk with color slides.

League Plans 'Fire' Sale

The annual Next-to-New sale of the Monterey Peninsula League will take on the look of a "fire sale" Saturday, from 9:30 o'clock to 5:00 o'clock at the Monterey County fairgrounds.

Representatives of the Monterey Fire Department, headed by Chief C. H. Hebrard, will be stationed at the main gate with a fire engine. Husbands of League members will appear at the one-day sale in fire helmets.

Heading the committee is Mrs. Michael Hughes. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Lewis Fenton and Mrs. George Hobbs. Departments, including men's clothing, furniture, women's and children's clothing, linens, accessories, jewelry, lingerie and hats, will be in charge of Mrs. W. B. Grainger, Mrs. Thomson J. Hudson, Mrs. Myron Etienne, Mrs. Robert B. Chapman, Mrs. David St. Leger Hill, Mrs. Colden Whitman, Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, Mrs. George Yates, Mrs. Patrick Dormody, Mrs. Herbert Meyer, Mrs. Lawson Little, Mrs. Henry Newman, Mrs. Richard Still, Mrs. Walter Newman, Mrs. Richard Dormody, Mrs. Thomas McNamara, Mrs. David Thorngate, Mrs. Robert G. Chapman, Mrs. Milton Thompson and Mrs. William J. MacDougall.

Other members of the sale committee are Mrs. Blair McDonald, Mrs. Arthur Hately Jr., Mrs. Mervyn Burke Jr., Mrs. Thomas Tonkin, Mrs. Robert Bello, Mrs. Edwin Lee and Mrs. Louis Rudolph.

Refreshments will be sold by sustaining members under the leadership of Mrs. Raymond J. Draper. Proceeds from the sale will go to support League projects, including the Monterey County Council, Children's Theatre, Youth Symphony Concerts and the Monterey Peninsula Christmas Bureau.

Party for a Six-Year-Old

When Joan Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Chandler of Carmel Knolls, turned six years old early this month, her brother promptly came down with mumps, and for that matter so did Joan.

On October 30, with all illness out of the way in the Chandler family, Joan invited her friends in for a birthday party, including on the list Jennifer Bestor, Jill Hibbe, Martha Jensen, Lora Lowrie, Naomi Marcus, Terry McFann, Elizabeth Mullnix, Ludmilla Sedletzky, Patty Vincent, Sylvia Zoellin, Leslie Hoffman, Randi Smith, Cindy Davis and Theresa Price.

The guests, all students at River School and most of them costumed in the garb they were to wear next day at River School Hallowe'en parade, finished the afternoon watching magic, as performed by Joan's grandfather, John Kidwell. Mr. Kidwell, an amateur magician, is better known to Peninsulans as an actor with the California First Theatre.

League of Women Voters Meeting

The Carmel unit of the League of Women voters will meet November 9 at 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mrs. A. S. Gaylord, Carpenter and Valley Way. The Resource Committee on National Policy will present for discussion their report on changes in the organization and policies of the United States' Aid Program, with emphasis on trade and tariff. Also on the agenda will be the League's continuing responsibility on the United Nations, of particular significance at this time.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan group of women who wish to be better informed on current issues. Local women of voting age are urged to attend and observe the League in action. Further information may be obtained by calling MA 4-5050, Mrs. John Brock, president.

Rotary Club Names Recreation Park Perry Newberry

ways ready to pitch in with two things," he added, "money and work."

August Nieto, chairman of the Carmel Recreation Committee, remarked that ever since he came here 14 years ago, the littered canyon had "bothered him and everyone else." He told how he and other members of the commission, George V. Yates, James Buffington, Elwood J. Wilson and Gyla Smith, also the city, sought to rectify the eyesore condition. Plans were completed in consultation with Mr. Whitaker, Carmel Street Commissioner, he reported.

Rollo Payne, Rotary Club president, stated that $1,400 donated by 63 members of the club to construct the shuffleboard courts and horseshoe pitches, "was spent on the best project we ever undertook."

Mr. Payne then presented to Harold H. Bond, president of the Carmel Seniors Club, a name plaque. Mr. Bond quickly hung it on the small building constructed on the site to house playing and maintenance equipment, also a coffeepot.

The name, Perry Newberry Park, was chosen, Mr. Payne added, from over 95 suggestions submitted anonymously in a Rotary Club contest to name the senior recreation area.

The late Mr. Newberry, a former editor of this paper, sought to keep Carmel free from commercialism. He campaigned for the city council and won on this platform.

Members of the Rotary Club committee who gave time and talent to the planning of the recreation areas, Clayton Neill Jr., Homer C. Bolter, Thomas K. Perry and Hugh Smith, chairman, were praised by Mr. Payne.

Granite Construction Company constructed the concrete shuffleboard courts at cost for the Rotary Club. Carmel High Twelve Club and Carmel Senior Club members donated their labor to construct the equipment shed and protective redwood stake fence around the shuffleboard courts, he emphasized.

The site was planted and prepared by the city under the supervision of Street Superintendent William Askew, who was at the dedication, delighted with the appreciation expressed for his part in the park project.

In addition to Mayor Putnam and Mr. Whitaker, other council members at the dedication ceremonies were Eben Whittlesey and John Chitwood. City Clerk Larry Rose beamed on everyone, so did Deputy City Clerk Art Plaxton.

Members of the Carmel Senior Club say their facilities will be open, "dawn to dark." All members of the community are eligible to join the group. Membership dues are five dollars per year. Initiation fee is also five dollars. Nonmembers may use the shuffleboard courts by paying 50 cents per day.

Charter members of the club are Rollo Payne, August Nieto, Hugh Smith, August H. Johnson, Don Neher, Ralph W. Thompson Sr., Richard C. Goodspeed, W. C. Aldous, Harold C. Bond, Clarence E. Fawcett, A. G. Mott, Fred C. Phillips, Walter J. Weldon, A. Roy Meyers, Ben H. Schulte, Walter M. Strong, C. S. Biery, Dr. L. A. Myers, Emil Shostrom, Thomas L. Craig, Ed. C. Cronwall Jr., Barnet J. Segal, Arne F. Halle, Walter F. Fremier, David Patterson, Walter J. Tancill, James Lloyd Womble, Peter Kutschera, R. B. Evans, Dr. E. Leigh Mudge, Sidney A. Dibble, Frank Putnam and Thomas K. Perry.

As soon as the park dedication was over, members of this group brought precious shuffleboard cues from racks in the shed and gave Mayor Putnam and Mr. Payne a lesson in their favorite sport.

Perry Newberry Park is situated below Camino Del Monte south of the intersection of this street with Junipero. A driveway and foot ramp off Camino Del Monte gives access to the recreation area, known until yesterday as the Mission and First park site.

All Saints' Episcopal Parish is still waiting for the board of adjustments to grant them a use permit to open a parochial school at Dolores and Ninth. This week the board continued the matter. Originally, the board of adjustments denied the parochial school permit. The parish appealed to the city council. The latter body reversed the denial and sent recommendations to the board of adjustments to issue the use permit.

Two weeks ago the board delayed issuance of the permit as they wanted to add safety conditions. This week they did nothing.

Planning commissioners, Monday, decided to ask the city council to remove all directional signs, except those needed for traffic regulation, from the center planting strip on Ocean Avenue.

The public improvements committee reported the six existing signs "are detrimental to the beauty of Carmel." They added that the privilege of such signs is not extended to all organizations. This is unfair.

The present signs were put up before the enactment of the present sign ordinance. Using their new powers, commissioners recently refused two art galleries and one theatre permission to erect directional signs in the strip. These denials were upheld by the city council when appealed.

Ralph Smith, dean of students at Monterey Peninsula College and MPC faculty member since 1947, is the new commissioner of the reorganized Coast Athletic Conference.

Dean Smith was named at a meeting of conference members, including delegates from Cabrillo, Hartnell, Menlo, San Benito, Vallejo and Monterey Peninsula colleges, held at Menlo College recently.

He is a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve, was assistant football coach at MPC in 1948.

Whether or not John Cosmos shall have a basement bathroom with outside entrance only for children's "clean up" use after play at the beach, was referred by planning commissioners, Monday, to their building and architecture committee for an interpretation of the building code that states rooms on any floor must be accessible from inside a dwelling. Architect Henry Hill, designer of the Cosmos house on Lopez Street, asked commissioners to allow his client to build the bathroom described above.

Commissioners gave George R. Fitzgerald a 10 percent height variance for a dining room closer than 15 feet to his lot line. He was not allowed to have windows, included in remodelling plans, on the west side of the house on Guadalupe Street, nor to enclose a deck, as he desired.

Laidlaw Williams Home

Laidlaw Williams is back at his home in Carmel Highlands after a summer in Canada at Baddeck on Cape Breton in Nova Scotia, where he and his wife, Abbie Lou, have a farm.

Mrs. Williams is in Annapolis, Maryland, visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Meyer, and their daughter, Cynthia. She is expected home at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams stopped in Cambridge, Massachusetts, to see their son, Boz, a sophomore at Harvard University, after they closed their Cape Breton home.

Police Department Handled Hallowe'en Without Much Ado

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann reports, except for college-age youths, Hallowe'en pranksters in Carmel this year confined their activities to shaving cream battles. Evidences of this could still be seen yesterday morning on uptown sidewalks, some cars and shop windows. Girls and boys, plentifully adorned with white foam the night before, roamed through the business district. Scene of the greatest pressurized shaving cream fray was at the corner of Ocean Avenue and San Carlos Street, but police quickly dispersed the combatants.

Robert Douglas complained that his small foreign car, at the same corner, was "creamed" and eight boys lifted the vehicle from the street and placed it on the sidewalk. Police rounded up the boys, had them replace the car on the street, then marched them to the police station where they were severely reprimanded.

Mary Knight, Escolle Way, told police her garage door had "Rudy Lamarr is a doll' written on it with lipstick in letters four inches high.

Other reports were eggs broken on a car, firecrackers exploded on Ocean Avenue. There were shattered pumpkins about town.

At Monte Verde and Thirteenth three teenage boys were picked up around a car. One of them was found to have a 16-ounce bottle of India ink which he admitted removing from the art room at Carmel High School. He had smeared three cars with the ink. Police told him this was malicious mischief and released him to the custody of his father. The other two boys were exonerated.

Harold Smithson reported a gate and garage door at the corner of Ocean Avenue and San Antonio Street had been painted with silver paint some time after midnight.

Five college-age youths were observed by Chief Klaumann as they took a wrench from a car and tried to turn on a fire hydrant at Santa Rita and Ocean. Three were caught by police as they attempted flight, the other two were brought in later. Police turned the matter over to Fire Chief Robert Smith.

Chief Smith impressed upon the youths that their supposed prank was a serious matter, the young men then volunteered to come to the fire station for the next three Sundays, polish fire engines and otherwise help the volunteer fire department with cleanup chores.

Berenice Little First Carmel OES Member To Get State Office

ing officer of the state-wide group.

Mrs. Little, who was worthy matron of the local chapter in 1956 and a deputy grand matron in 1959, was appointed by Worthy Grand Matron Mrs. Paul Isberg of Temple City, California. She succeeds Mrs. Ruth Macrae of San Luis Obispo to the office of Adah, which is one of the five points of the star in lodge ceremony.

Dr. Robert Atkinson of San Francisco is worthy grand patron for the state.

Installation rites in the southern city took place on Friday, October 20, after a week of convention activities.

Other members of the Carmel chapter, in addition to Mrs. Little, who went south for the occasion included Mrs. Norman Fontes, worthy matron for the past year of the local chapter; Norman C. Winslow, worthy patron for the past year; Mrs. Roy Lewis, incoming worthy matron; George Bloomer, incoming worthy patron; Mrs. Ed Duel, conductress of the Carmel chapter; Mrs. Winslow, Mrs. Samuel Coleman and Mr. Fontes.

Mrs. Little's appointment opens for her a year of travel to all parts of the state, where she will take part, with other grand officers, in helping organize new local chapters.

Her first long trip, she says, will be what the organization calls "the desert trip," and includes visits to chapters in Escondido, Calexico, Blythe, Needles and other communities in that section of the state.

She will go south in January for this tour, and north, up the Redwood Highway, in May for more OES activities.

A charter member of the Carmel OES chapter, Mrs. Little has been active in the group since it was instituted here in 1951. She served as marshal during the first year of the chapter's existence. Wife of Robert L. Little, Carmel insurance man, she is also a member of the Twenty-Forty Club and of the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

The new grand officer got home last week in time for a brief call on the Carmel chapter during a farewell party last Wednesday at the Cypress Club for the chapter's outgoing worthy matron, Mrs. Fontes, and worthy patron Mr. Winslow.

For her installation in Long Beach, Mrs. Little wore a floor-length gown of white French imported lace with French sequins, the skirt billowing with layers of English tulle. She carried a pink heart fashioned of tulle and orchids.

MINOR ACCIDENT

A two-car accident on Sloat Road in Del Monte Forest at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon caused minor injuries to the driver of one car, John B. Brazil, 41, of Pacific Grove.

The mishap occurred 16 feet west of Forest Lodge Road when a car driven by Jesse G. Chaney, Jr., 17, of 1096 Lariat Lane, Pebble Beach, eastbound on Sloat, struck the Brazil car in the rear. Brazil was treated by a private physician.

To Speak at MPC

Dr. Victor Ferkiss, KPFA commentator and St. Mary's College political science department chairman, will continue his series of three lectures on The African Personality this month at Monterey Peninsula College. His second talk will be at 8:00 o'clock tomorrow evening in the college armory. He is a former consultant to the Office of African Programs of the Peace Corps.

Doud Arcade Includes Whitney's, Six Shops And Upstairs Offices

side and G. Moller, the butcher, on the other.

The new arcade, owned by James C. Doud and planned by architect Robert Jones, will contain five other shops in addition to Whitney's and Mildred's: San Carlos Real Estate, Carmel Florist, Wicks and Wax, Altair Perfumes and Bergie's Fashions, all on street level. A second story will contain business and professional offices with access by stairway or elevator.

Among special features of the new shopping complex is a glass-panelled roof to provide light as well as weather protection. Contractor was Comstock Associates.

FIRE AND AMBULANCE CALLS

A fire at Joe's Taxi yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock brought out equipment from the Carmel Fire Department. According to the report, the blaze, which caused minor damage, occurred when workmen started to repair a gas pump.

Tuesday, a fire at Carmel Realty caused some $600 damage to a rug when apparently a discarded cigaret started a blaze in a wastebasket, according to Carmel volunteer firemen who responded to the general alarm.

A car fire Sunday was put out by firemen in front of the fire department. It had been caused by a lighted cigaret lodged in the upholstery of the rear seat. Name of the driver who drove to the fire department for help was not listed.

Miss Ruth Clifford was taken by Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department to Community Hospital Annex on Tuesday from her home at Torres between Ninth and Tenth avenues. Firemen responded at 9:03 o'clock in the evening to the medical emergency.

Yesterday the ambulance was called to Eighth and Mountain View streets for a medical emergency involving Edward W. Franklin who also was transported to the annex.

Josephine Guilbert

A former teacher, Miss Josephine Douglas Guilbert, 85, died at her home, Santa Lucia and San Antonio streets, early yesterday morning.

Born in Mexico, Miss Guilbert had considered Carmel her home both before and after her retirement in 1949 as head of the Guilbert School for girls in Alhambra, which she had founded together with her sister, Mrs. Virginia Loughery.

Miss Guilbert had also taught for many years prior to the establishment of her own school, in Los Angeles area schools and in Spokane.

A noteworthy sidelight on Miss Guilbert's busy life was the fact that she herself constructed her home in Carmel in the Twenties when she spent school vacations here. Friends still have pictures of the cottage in various stages during the building, showing Miss Guilbert at work.

Survivors include a number of nieces and nephews. Services are pending at the Paul Mortuary.

Mrs. Hawley

Memorial services were held this morning in All Saints' Episcopal Church for Mrs. Marguerite Lewis Hawley of Carmel, who died early Tuesday in a local hospital following a brief illness. She had lived in Carmel for the past six years, coming here with her husband, Royal D. Hawley, from San Francisco where the couple had resided since 1906.

A native of Lawrence, Kansas, where she was born September 17, 1886, Mrs. Hawley was married October 15, 1906, and came to make her home in the Bay area where Mr. Hawley was engaged in a railroad supplies business.

Following his retirement, the Hawleys came to Carmel in 1955, and made their home at Camino Real at Eighth Avenue.

Mrs. Hawley was a member of All Saints' Episcopal Church and the Monterey County Symphony Guild. She was a charter member of the Women's Athletic Club of San Francisco.

Contributions in Mrs. Hawley's memory may be made to the All Saints' Church Building Fund.

VISITORS FROM RIVER

Twenty-one young visitors from River School toured the Pine Cone offices and composing and press rooms yesterday afternoon, shepherded by their fifth grade teacher, Miss Ann Caren.

In the group were: Charles Bordeau, John Carstensen, Mark Czirban, Robert Gordon, Chris Laiolo, Tom Noonan, Gary McCue, Dan O'Brien, Gary Schmoranc, Mark Spindler, Kelly Steele, Suzanne Benson, Betsy Bruce, Kathy Buerkle, Nancy Caravan, Debby Gaskell, Dee Kelsey, Patti Lay, Mary Beth Neill, Barbara Thompson and Sue Gleickner.
